The best way to judge a pest control company in Roanoke is to listen to the people who have used it. Perdue Exterminators keeps a reviews page on its website, and the comments there paint a consistent picture of a family owned company that shows up on time, treats homes carefully and keeps customers coming back for years. Those themes line up with what the company says about itself: large enough to serve you, but small enough to know you.

Reliability is one of the most common points. One customer wrote that they received very good and timely service, and another described Perdue as the company to depend on every year for all your needs. That kind of long term loyalty is not easy to earn in pest control, where homeowners can switch providers any time.

Care and professionalism come up often too. A reviewer described a technician who was friendly, professional and took extra care. Another parent noted that the technician was extremely careful with spraying certain areas because the family has a two year old. For families with young children and pets, that attention to detail matters as much as results.

Reviewers mention a range of work, including power spraying, infestation treatment, advice about ants and snakes and wood destroying insect inspections, reflecting the breadth of Perdue's services.

Technicians are named in several reviews, with Richard mentioned more than once. That personal connection is part of what sets a local company apart. Perdue's small team includes long tenured staff with decades of experience, so customers often see familiar faces visit after visit. When a technician has been inside the same home several times, they can spot what has changed and give advice that fits that particular house instead of generic tips.

Reviews are also a reminder that every job is a chance to earn trust. Perdue lists prompt response times, reasonable rates, dependable exterminators local pest company Roanoke and a heavy emphasis on customer satisfaction among its priorities, and the feedback suggests those are more than words on a page.
