2. Identity Theft

When individuals attempt to purchase a cheap license online, they are usually asked to supply sensitive personal details, including their full name, date of birth, Social Security number (or national ID equivalent), address, and a digital picture. Handing this info over to an unregulated, confidential site is an open invitation for identity theft.

3. Financial Loss

Scammers running these operations depend on untraceable payment approaches-- such as cryptocurrency, wire transfers, or gift cards. When the cash is sent out, the website usually disappears, or the purchaser gets an improperly printed piece of plastic that can not pass even a standard visual inspection, let alone electronic scanning by law enforcement.

The Reality of Government-Issued Identification

It is an universal truth across almost all modern-day legal systems: No government agency outsources the printing and issuing of motorist's licenses to third-party e-commerce sites.

A legitimate chauffeur's license requires:

1. Identity Verification: Presenting physical birth certificates, passports, or evidence of residency in person.
2. Biometrics: Having your picture and signature caught at an official federal government center.
3. Proficiency Testing: Passing a government-administered composed knowledge test and a behind-the-road abilities test with a certified examiner.

If an online service claims they can bypass these steps since they have "insider connections" at the DMV, it is a definitive scam.
