

How to Get Your Texas Crash Report in San Antonio A few days after a wreck, most people realize they need something official that says what happened. That's the crash report. In Texas it's called the Texas Peace Officer's Crash Report, or CR-3, and it's often the first document an insurance company reads when it decides who was at fault. Start with the report number. When SAPD or the Bexar County Sheriff's Office responds to your crash, the officer should give you a card or slip with a case or report number on it. If you didn't get one, think about who showed up. Crashes inside city limits, like a wreck at Fredericksburg Road and Wurzbach Road or near the South Texas Medical Center, are usually handled by SAPD. Some areas outside the city are covered by the Sheriff's Office. Knowing which agency responded makes the report much easier to track down. If you're still unsure, call that agency's non-emergency line and give them the date, time and location of the crash. Next, go to TxDOT. Texas crash reports are available through TxDOT's Crash Records Information System, known as CRIS. You'll usually need details like the crash date, the county (Bexar), the names of the drivers or the report number. Reports can take some time to appear, so if yours isn't there right away, don't panic. Check back. Once you have it, read it carefully. Look at the diagram, the contributing factors, the vehicle details and the witness information. Officers work fast at busy scenes like Loop 410 and San Pedro Avenue or US 281 and Loop 410, and mistakes do happen. Keep a copy with your photos, medical bills and the other driver's insurance details so everything lives in one San Antonio car crash lawyer place.

What if the report gets something wrong or blames you unfairly? It isn't the final word. A report is important evidence, but insurers and courts also look at photos, witness statements, video footage and vehicle damage. Texas uses modified comparative fault, so the way blame is split matters a lot. You can still recover if you're partly at fault, as long as you're under 51 percent. A San Antonio car accident lawyer can pull the report for you, compare it to the other evidence and challenge it when the facts don't line up. You shouldn't have to chase paperwork while you're recovering. The Aguirre Law Firm is available 24/7 by call, email or text, offers online appointments, and charges no fee unless they win. Alex Aguirre spent the start of his career defending insurance companies, so he knows how they read a CR-3. The Aguirre Law Firm, PLLC Address: 3015 Napier Pk, San Antonio, TX 78231 Phone: (210) 922-0808 FAQ About San Antonio Car Accident Lawyer How much do lawyers take from a car accident settlement in Texas? Most Texas car accident lawyers work on contingency, so their fee is a percentage of what they recover and nothing if they lose. The Aguirre Law Firm, PLLC handles San Antonio car accident cases this way, with no upfront cost and no fee unless the firm wins. The exact percentage is set out in your written fee agreement before any work starts, so there are no surprises. How hard is it to win a car accident lawsuit? It depends on the evidence. Clear fault, a CR-3 crash report, photos, witnesses and consistent medical records make a claim much stronger. Founder Alex Aguirre spent the start of his career defending insurance companies, so the firm knows the arguments insurers use to deny or shrink claims and prepares for them early. Most cases settle, but the team is ready to go to trial when an offer is unfair. What is my San Antonio car accident claim worth? No honest lawyer can put a number on your claim without looking at the details. Value depends on your medical bills, future treatment, lost wages, the severity of your injuries and how clear the other driver's fault is. The Aguirre Law Firm, PLLC reviews all of this in a free consultation and explains what compensation may be realistic for your situation. What should I do after a car accident in San Antonio? Check everyone for injuries, call 911 and get the report number from SAPD or the Bexar County Sheriff's Office. Take photos of the vehicles and the scene, get witness details and see a doctor quickly, even if you feel fine. Then call The Aguirre Law Firm, PLLC at (210) 922-0808, which is open 24 hours a day. Can I recover compensation if I was partially at fault? Yes, in many cases. Texas uses modified comparative fault, so you can still recover as long as you are less than 51 percent responsible, although your award is reduced by your share of the blame. Insurers often push extra fault onto injured drivers after crashes at busy spots like Loop 1604 and I-10, and the firm works to challenge that with evidence. Should I talk to the other driver's insurance company? It's best not to give a recorded statement before you get legal advice. Adjusters can use casual comments like "I'm fine" to argue your injuries aren't serious. Alex Aguirre knows these tactics from his years on the defense side, and his team can handle insurer calls for you from the first day. How long do I have to file a car accident claim in Texas? Texas generally gives you two years from the date of the crash to file a personal injury lawsuit, and two years from the date of death for a wrongful death claim. Some claims, such as those involving a government vehicle, can have earlier notice requirements. Calling The Aguirre Law Firm, PLLC early gives the team time to gather evidence before it disappears. What compensation can I get after a San Antonio car wreck? You may be able to recover current and future medical costs, lost wages and earning capacity, property damage, pain and suffering, mental anguish and physical impairment. In cases of gross negligence, such as some drunk driving crashes, Texas law may also allow exemplary damages. The firm reviews every category so nothing gets left out of your claim. What if the driver who hit me has no insurance? Your own policy may still protect you. Texas insurers must offer uninsured and underinsured motorist coverage and personal injury protection, and PIP is included unless you rejected it in writing. The Aguirre Law Firm, PLLC reviews your policy for free and pursues every available source of recovery, including in hit and run cases. Do I need a lawyer for a minor car accident? If nobody was hurt and the damage is small, you may not need one. If you have pain, missed work or the insurer is disputing fault, a free consultation is worth the call. The Aguirre Law Firm, PLLC will tell you plainly whether your San Antonio crash needs legal help. How long does a car accident settlement take in Texas? Simple claims can settle in a few months, while serious injury cases often take longer because you need to finish treatment before the full cost is known.
