Along with these transparent rental fees, your price includes tons of debris disposal. If your project generates more waste than your allotted tonnage, any overage is charged at a clearly disclosed rate per pound — keeping surprise charges to a minimum.

How to Choose the Right Dumpster Size: 10, 15, or 20 Yards?

Not sure what size dumpster you'll need? Choosing the right roll-off container space is crucial to keeping your project running smoothly and avoiding extra fees for overfilling or ordering a second dumpster.

Common Dumpster Sizes Explained

- 10 Yard Dumpster: Great for small remodels, garage cleanouts, or minor roofing debris — fits roughly the volume of a midsize pickup bed loaded twice.
- 15 Yard Dumpster: Ideal for mid-size renovation jobs or larger roof tear-offs; offers more room without taking up too much yard or driveway space.
- 20 Yard Dumpster: Best for larger scale projects like major remodels or full-house cleanouts, when you need ample disposal capacity.
