Planning Your International Move

The key to a successful international relocation is planning. It's essential to start well in advance to ensure everything runs smoothly. Here are some tips to help you prepare for your big move:

1. Start Early

International moves require more time than local relocations. Begin planning your move at least 8 to 12 weeks before your scheduled departure. This gives you ample time to arrange logistics, hire professional movers, and take care of any legal or administrative tasks required by your destination country.

2. Research Your Destination Country

Every country has its own set of rules and regulations when it comes to importing goods. It's important to understand what is allowed and what isn't. Your international movers will assist with this process, but doing your own research will ensure that there are no surprises along the way.

3. Create an Inventory

Making a detailed inventory list of all the items you're moving will help you stay organized. It's also crucial for customs purposes, as customs authorities in most countries require a comprehensive list of the items you're shipping. Your movers will assist with this process and ensure your inventory is accurate.

5. Insurance Coverage

Accidents can happen, and items can sometimes get damaged during the move. It's essential to consider insurance for your belongings. Scottdale international movers offer various insurance options to ensure your items are fully covered during transit.
